Research firm spotlights universities notable for educational quality in 2021

February 26, 2021, Miami Gardens, FL- PsychologyDegreeGuide.org, a leading higher education research and resource provider in the psychology space, has announced its 2021 rankings for the top undergraduate psychology programs offered by the nation's best HCBUs. The company researched programs from around the nation to highlight the very best in this important field. Among the top schools listed are Howard University, Florida A&M University, Spelman College and Florida Memorial University.

"Finding the top schools offering the highest quality psychology programs for undergraduate students required us to weigh a number of different factors," Jason Samarin, founder and CEO of PsychologyDegreeGuide.org said. "Our data experts spent months researching the psychology degree programs at the nation's top Historically Black Colleges and Universities to find those schools that truly stood out when it comes to academics, curriculum, affordability and student support."

"I attribute this accomplishment to a faculty team who are committed to ensuring the success of their students through excellence in mentoring, scholarship and pedagogical practices." Dr. Edward Stephenson, Associate Professor of FMU Psychology and Coordinator of the Psychology Program, Florida Memorial University.
